

18 a being warm inside now writing at the laptop ...how can he get out of this autobio trend now in full speed entering the fantasy fiction parts ... mmmh... is it a guilt complex having not told a brilliantly colourful tale around how the visits in the rainforests were ... or the confusion about how important are names ... would it be better to write the commonly used reality names or should fantasy names save the disconnection of fantasy to reality ... but wait, disconnection ... what trip of fear is that ... is this not about growing softly into each other, understanding, enhancing, getting wholesome and handarmiegssome humanimalplant element enhanced style ... yes it is, but then ... how many readers will that text have who are fuelling the effects of the story onto reality with their own recollection of what they wish to the world to become better ... how many readers might this text reach who could eventually being led with the namings to project some emotions and inner pictures towards a city like paris, risap, rasip ... oh yes, it is in full swing, the blabbel like i would talk to the baarkeeper when being drunk and having no one to tell him how i am stuck in my writing, facing a wall of sober cautionairism luoma, donanref, ava, umu were mostly dancing around the experiments aeroponics, bioreactors, petri dishes and bathing at times in the pool they have rebuilt into a semi-natural one with now still having one classical bathtub what was able to pipe freshwater in and release used water in the sewer canals of risap luoi was learning fast from luoma with her skin being merged with ascende and perma ... luoi too was after three bathing meditation sessions with luoma enabled to soak up the sun and photosynthesise the light into nutrition ...

miraël too was joying in the bathing fun while manulsei was actually the only one still using the rasip city water as to not become changed too, he somehow wanted to keep a strictly human genetic of course he kind of wanted to join in the fun the others had bathing together both in meditation as well as in sexy moments, but he felt already blessed enough to be here to see his friends metamorphing so he was actually so excited by his fellows growing into completion, that he found more and more evidence as to why stay human ... not actually fearing that the process might be having some negative side effects, why should that be ... as there was no synthetisation happening and no forced separations or pushed fusions ... the processes in the rasip appartment laboratory went slowly, over days, on the cellular getting to know each other and try to intercopulate till a possible recombination could be found or no synergy was possible miraël and donaref were wearing their body signal recorders during the 5 times they bathed and at the fifth time became plantanimal cells enhanced the database of correlated recordings of what happened in the outside with audio and video capture ... with what happened inside via the body signals recorder sensors ... the database archiving all these connections ... would eventually enable the artificial intelligent software of the desired android ... the database could eventually enable a self learning and itself software and hardware wise improving tuning ... to understand the reasons for hunger or otherwise said how a recognition of the benefits of touch, smell, sound, visuals can send light to ones heart and stomach... or how a pretty picture of oneself at the pure sandy sunny ocean beach ... cehowuld eventually warm a person suffering from being exposed to cold weather for example ... one of the future android eventually being asked to descend thousands of meters down to the bed of the oceans to close a leak where some oil drillings have caused a mess ... there it could be very practical if the android could imagine itself being exposed to the sunlight ... or any other scenario what could balance out the cold and dark sensual inputs he would get down there the documentation of the whole project since perma has moved in with ascende at the appartement in rasip, has not been produced yet in a form what would show some serious order and continuosum ... as there were a couple of side themes what asked for jumping at them when they came in to the discussion ... or one experiment reacted to the evolution of an other petri dish culture ... the dancers saw via life microscopic projections onto the floor the changes of their skin cells how they grew into each other ... the love makers in the bath could look up at the ceiling to see their skins being enhanced while bathing in the pool what was alive now with all kinds of organisms growing from petri dish grown samples and microalgae, body fluids ... all fluids and samples of cells were being contributed with the most possible gentleness and soft smooth handling, joy and fun being the lubricants for the cell types to grow into each other as the visits to the rainforest areas were happening in mutual understanding and dignified styles, ascende and perma were not longer than a week later arriving in nacarsie islands where perma had her permahouse or permahut, her garden following the notill but mulch principle ... nila having been allowed to donate 60 000 to the buying of landtitles for parts of zonama forests, she wanted to join ascende and perma after she spent some days with friends in the paolosa appartement introducing them via webcam to their parisian fellow researchers ... as not to complicate the already too complexly written story ... the author, naming himself ... a.... does not intend to come up with some new 5 or more names for the new researchers in paolosa ... nila arrived at the hut of perma about a week later than the two who have made use of their new found quiet and silent slow lifestyle on the island with no camera and experiments to look after or to look into and produce some externalisation ... while mundu was successful too in the nongco bassin and flew further to awahi where he intended to start at first step finding himself a situation where nature animal and plant realms would share their spores fluids semen eggs branches saliva urine leaf dew with him in charging moments of over logical super e motional instances ascende, perma and nila stopped recording, phoning, chatting electronically for a while with themselves too talking less and less to each other, but listening to each others moans of pleasure and relaxation when lying beside each other in the sun or when swimming in the ocean, jumping of a rock into the water, dancing at the beach on sunrise and sunset, picking the berries and pulling carrots out of the ground ... they lived a simple life for about 4 months ... when mundu and his two awahi friends were progressing quite a bit into building a field laboratory what was not far away from being as functional as that in rasip ... but of course here was the air a lot better than in paris, the flow of it as well as its molecular content ... the roof and walls of his laboratory had big window glass elements with the bioreactors of microalgae soaking it up very thankfully as well as the inhouse tomato bushes and cannabis mini trees ... oohh... amtoto red squishy fruits the size of a fist ... making a delicious utschkip .... haha, very funny .... but perhaps it is .... nacasib growing all over the place boom boom bolee